

Farewell to the giant in clinical and simulation-based education

"Hello and welcome to Paray School of Nursing! Today, we're buzzing with excitement as we bid farewell to none other than Dr. Beloved Masava, our beloved champion of Clinical and Simulation-Based Education in Lesotho. Gather 'round as we share the story of Dr. Masava's incredible journey with us, spanning a remarkable sixteen years of dedication and innovation.

Picture this: a bustling hub of aspiring nurses, eager to learn and grow. That's us! And at the heart of it all stands Dr. Masava, a true beacon of inspiration. For over a decade and a half, he has poured his heart and soul into shaping the future of nursing education, leaving an indelible mark on our institution and the nursing profession at large.

Dr. Masava's story with us began like a spark igniting a flame. As our pioneering Clinical Instructor, he arrived at a time when our resources were modest, to say the least. But with his boundless energy and unwavering passion, he transformed our humble Clinical Teaching Department into a powerhouse of innovation and excellence.

Imagine the scene: students huddled around high-fidelity mannequins, immersed in lifelike simulations that transport them into real-world healthcare scenarios. That's the magic Dr. Masava brought to Paray School of Nursing. His vision and leadership propelled us into the forefront of simulation-based education, revolutionizing the way our students learn and practice.

But Dr. Masava's impact didn't stop within our walls. Oh no, he ventured far and wide, traversing the rugged terrain of Lesotho to ensure that nursing students across the country had access to top-tier clinical placements. From the mountainous regions to the lowlands, his tireless efforts have elevated the standard of nursing education nationwide, cementing Paray School of Nursing as a true center of excellence.

As we bid farewell to Dr. Masava, affectionately known as 'Savino' to many, we can't help but feel a twinge of sadness. His presence has become woven into the fabric of our institution, and the thought of Paray without him feels like a piece of the puzzle missing. Yet, amidst the bittersweet goodbyes, we're filled with excitement for the journey that lies ahead for Dr. Masava.

To our dear Savino, we say this: thank you. Thank you for your unwavering dedication, your boundless passion, and your endless inspiration. As you embark on your next adventure, know that you carry with you the love and gratitude of an entire community. May your path be illuminated by success, and may you continue to shine brightly wherever you go.
